This luxury hotel and resort operations company has created magnificent hotels all around the world, and the Fairmont Jaipur in India is no exception. Exquisitely designed by Randolph Gray, it reflects and complements the uniqueness of the local community by evoking the spectacular architectural style of surrounding palaces. In addition to its 248 rooms, this hotel also features a variety of restaurants and bars, including a poolside bar, a 10,000-square-foot Willow Stream spa, and a 5,000-square-foot health club. The hotel's magnificent 48,500-square-foot convention center and gardens can host over 1,000 guests.

Our lighting concept for the Fairmont Jaipur creates dramatically illuminated spaces, fully capitalizing on the romance inherent in the architectural styling. All lighting design solutions were whetted through the prism of romance and love. Once the lighting ideas were seen as augmenting the feelings of romance and intimacy, we composed the scenes such that the guests could navigate the whole hotel without having to come out of their romantic spell.
